ADVOCACY FOR DISABILITY ACCESS AND INCLUSION (ADAI)

We are an independent not-for-profit organisation who have been providing advocacy services to South Australians with disability for over 39 years.

- We provide FREE short term, issue-specific advocacy support for individuals of all ages in South Australia.
- Encourage, empower and support people with disability toward independence through self-advocacy.
- Funded by the Australian Government.

What can ADAI do for me?

An advocate will work in partnership with you on a range of issues including but not limited to:

- Education
- Employment / Work Issues
- NDIS (Including Reviews)
- Government Payments
- Finances
- Health
- Housing Issues
- Guardianship
- SACAT matters
- Individual Capacity Building
- Disability Support Pension
- Information and Referrals
- Workshops and training

Who can receive disability advocacy support?

- People with disability.
- Carers and family on behalf of people with disability.

How can an advocate assist you?

- An advocate will offer you support to express your views, promote your own interests and to access services.
- An advocate will help you understand information.
- An advocate could liaise with and refer you to another service.
- An advocate can assist you to access services and resources.
- An advocate can attend meetings to support you.
- An advocate can help you with applications and letter writing.
- We provide workshops and information sessions.

We offer advocacy support through the following programs:

ADAI REGIONAL CAPACITY BUILDING AND PEER SUPPORT PROGRAM

The program supports people with disability to build knowledge, skills, capability and confidence to know their rights and have their voices heard. We work with individuals and support organisations in the community to strengthen self-advocacy skills.

NATIONAL DISABILITY ADVOCACY PROGRAM (NDAP)

The NDAP provides effective advocacy support to people with disability seeking to reach a resolution on an issue.

NDIS APPEALS PROGRAM

The NDIS Appeals Program supports people with disability, affected by reviewable decisions of the NDIA, and helps people to access support when seeking a decision review through the Administrative Review Tribunal (ART).

SUPPORTED EMPLOYMENT ADVOCACY PROJECT

Supports people with disability in supported employment, including those working in Australian Disability Enterprises (ADEs) or in open employment, and young people with high support needs who are transitioning from school to work.
